The fascinating family restaurant

The Euphrates River now known as FURAT, is one of the most important rivers in the world. Along with the Tigris, it provided much of the water that supported the development of ancient Mesopotamian culture. The Tigris Euphrates valley was the birthplace of the ancient civilizations of Assyria, Babylonian, and Sumer. The Sumerians were a remarkable people. They were a long lasting civilization of enormous accomplishment. One of the exciting things about the Sumerians is that when the curtain goes up, everything is already in full motion. From their very first writings they reveal an organized society with kings, laws, literature, schools, and libraries. They appear on the world scene as a very sophisticated people.

In northern Iraq the FURAT forms the western boundary of the area and to the southeast the alluvial lands between the two rivers was the site of the glorious Babylonian civilizations of ancient times. The FURAT is important solely for its water supply. The river is the source of political importance, as Turkey, Syria and Iraq all compete for the use of its waters for irrigation and the generation of hydroelectric power. For centuries the river formed the east limit of Roman control. During the supremacy of the Eastern Roman Empire, numerous towns and centers of art and literature flourished along its bank.
